

Freedom Day: A Lament for Lost Liberties

Dear Supporter,

As we reflect on Freedom Day our hearts are heavy with the weight of a South Africa that is crumbling under an oppressive, corrupt, discriminating and restrictive government. Over the 18 years since its founding in 2007, the Cape Independence Party - CAPEXIT has watched the dream of 1994 become an increasingly distant memory.

Each year, this public holiday underscores the loss of trust in a government that betrays its people, the loss of economic stability that shackles our youth, the loss of the very liberties we were told would define our new dawn and the reality of lives lived in fear of falling victim to crime.

We were promised unity, prosperity, and equality - a rainbow nation where every voice would be heard freely. Instead, we see a land where opportunity is stifled by corruption, where power outages darken our homes and hopes, and where safety is a luxury few can afford. Instead, laws and policies such as BBBEE, AA, land reform policies, the BELA Act to name a few, highlight examples in which the ruling ANC government continues to discriminate against minorities, restricting their freedoms. And instead, we are keenly aware that the steady erosion of freedoms of all South Africans such as freedom of association, freedom of speech, media and internet freedom, freedom of religion to name only a few, continues unabated.

And by reflecting, we also dream of a Cape that rises, independent and free, where Freedom Day might one day mean what it was meant to. Freedom, to us, is not just a word, it is the right to govern ourselves, to protect our communities, and to build a future undeterred by a failing state. The Western Cape stands apart, yearning for self-determination to preserve our shared past and to develop the Cape and the people of the Cape to its full potential.

Although we mourn what might have been, we forge forward in our steadfast pursuit of freedom, peace and prosperity.
